INTRODUCTION

Our Company is committed to research and development, design and production of a full set of flexitank, with strict control of each production process from raw materials to the multiple quality examination of all the finished products, thus ensuring the excellent performance of safety and environmental protection, high strength impact resistance and so on.

A flexitank (or called flexibag) is a soft, tough, light, polyethylene (PE) and polypropylene (PP) reinforced bladder with a volume of 14.000 to 24.000 liters for transporting non-hazardous liquid cargoes inside standart 20ft ISO dry-box container.

It is generally used one time. This makes flexitanks a cost-effective transportation solution for non-hazardous liquids certain chemicals, latex, wines, food oils and juices.
